Dear parent / carer,

This term, we are planning to show two films as part of our Ancient Greece context for learning: The 300 Spartans (1961) and Percy Jackson and the Lightning Thief (2010), both rated PG. We believe these films will help to inspire the children in their historical understanding, as well as feeding into the writing of their own Greek myth.

PG' stands for Parental Guidance. This means a film is suitable for general viewing, but some scenes may be unsuitable for younger children. A 'PG' film should not disturb a child aged around eight or older.

If you would rather your child did not watch either or both of these films, please contact us by Tuesday 24th January.

Please do contact us with any questions,

Yours sincerely,

Anna Smith
